Premier green energy

Premier Green Energy Ltd, an indigenous and pioneering company based in Thurles, have launched a unique and technologically advanced solution to the two main issues for industry today, providing

- (a) a green solution to waste streams
- (b) a sustainable solution to power generation.

Premier Green Energy promotes equipment that operates a technology based on the principle of pure pyrolysis, a thermal process in which organic materials in waste streams are broken down under pressure and in the absence of oxygen.

The gas produced is suitable for use on many engine ranges, which convert chemical energy in the gas into electrical energy reaping financial savings for the customer.

Complete Coatings were asked by PGE Ltd to design specify coatings that would meet the requirements for both heat resistance and anti-weathering properties. The challenge was to supply paints that would not scorch and blacken from the heat created in the vessels and pipes and could still maintain the highly sought after decorative appearance of the coatings on the frames, vessels and pipework that PGE required on the pieces.
